October Specialties

by Art Stewart

We have AKC approval to again this year to hold back to back specialty shows. The dates are Saturday, October 6, 2001, and Sunday, October 7, 2001.

At this point we are 98% sure the site will be the Clark County Fairgrounds. We're just waiting on final approval by the Vancouver Kennel Club's board.

Our Judges

Saturday the 6th

- Breed and Junior Handling: Donald Harris
- Obedience: Curt Allen Curtis
- Sweepstakes: Pending

Sunday the 7th

- Breed and Junior Handling: David Flanagan
- Obedience: Judi James
- Sweepstakes: Cathy Kleinsorge

Our show committee is almost finalized. Some key people that will be starting their efforts and will need everyone's help are:

- Janee & Dave Kemp are doing the Raffle. So if you have items or can identify sources for items please contact them.
- Jan Sturm is the Trophy Chairman. We always need donations to help offset the cost of trophies. It is one of the biggest expenses in putting on a specialty.
- Marsha Caldwell will be doing Catalog Advertising Think about putting in an ad. Contact Marsha for help in preparing the ad.

We haven't finalized a host hotel at this point. We expect to have a block of rooms available at a reduced rate. Soon as we know the hotel will get the information out to everyone.

Rescue Success!

by Jan Martin

Baby-Maggie, a 6 month old spayed black/white girl picked up from Willamette Valley Animal Shelter in Salem on I-5. She has a lot of energy, but is a little shy until she's sure of herself. The unfortunate result of the shyness was puddles. But isn't this the sweetest face?

She was briefly in foster care with Debbie, but noisy during the day and we were scrambling to find a new place. The day before we had to move her, just the right family came along! Whew! Thanks to Sherri and David Paul for your care and your donation! Maggie's been to obedience class and is doing well. Funny how a family gives a dog confidence!

Freckles is a 5 year old liver/white neutered male whose owner died suddenly. The widow was not able to give him exercise (she's in her 80s) and needed to find him a place. Fifteen minutes after I talked to her, a couple called from White City. You would have thought they'd seen this dog and were describing him! Even annoying habit were met with, "Yes, our old dog did that!" They were up to King City in a couple of days, and Freckles settled in as if he'd always been with them! We LOVE when that happens.

Mollie was a real find! She's 1½ years old, liver and white, spayed, lived in Boise, from hunting lines. Her owner says she shows lots of promise as a hunter, good nose, birdy, quartering and not gun-shy. She is not TRAINED yet. She was being placed because she wanted to be inside with the family, and cried at the window. Awwwww...

Baby Maggie

Big Maggie

John Young had been waiting for a dog since last fall. Mollie fit the bill. After trying unsuccessfully to arrange transportation, he flew her from Boise to Portland. They are very happy; she's figured out the invisible fence (they live in ZigZag) and she helps her dad maintain the ski lifts at Timberline. And she can be inside all she wants! We hope a picture is in the mail...

Big Maggie, at nine years old and 72 lbs, has been our biggest worry! She was first referred in late December by an owner battling breast cancer. The chemo was wearing her out, but she wanted to do right by this very passive Couch Potato Excellent dog. She hired the neighbor kids to take over the daily walks, but we were having no interested applicants. Finally, we got a call from a retired woman who lives "in the Redwoods." She wanted a friend for her older girl Springer and felt Maggie fit the bill. They're meeting in Grants Pass on March 3rd to transfer her to her new home with Ruth Garciacelay.

Lucky is between 2 and 3 years old. When rescued on Whidby Island, he had such a bad ear infection that his Vet uses the photos in his practice as a "worst case" example. He was being kenneled up to 18 hours each day. Unfortunately, his new owners work over 12 hours each day, so poor Lucky was not getting the exercise or attention he needed.

Lucky is a lover, and wants a lot of attention. He is great with kids and loves to play. He's fine with cats, and quite sociable with other dogs. His weight is down from the nearly 75 pounds he weighed in November to a healthy 53 pounds now. He is going to a new home in Tillamook, found through the ad.

Lucky

You may not want to count Clyde as a "rescue," but I do! He wandered into Kim's yard and life last fall, and we corresponded a lot about whether she should keep him. He stayed, but her husband complained about his size and the white hair all over everything.

They've made the right decision. A short haircut, and recognition that "Nobody could love this dog as much as you do!" Clyde's staying! Sheets on the sofa may help a little too.

Clyde

"He is your friend, your partner, your defender, your dog. You are his life, his love, his leader. He will be yours, faithful and true, to the last beat of his heart. You owe it to him to be worthy of such devotion."— Unknown

Play Day

The play day held on February 17th was well attended and it was nice to see some faces we haven't seen in a while, plus some prospective new members. It was also nice to see that David Brattin is doing remarkably well after his knee surgery and it was good to see him at the play day.

The raffle raised nearly $100 to be used for our trophy fund for the specialties this year.

Those who attended had a chance to work their young dogs in conformation. And we had agility and obedience run throughs also.

Our thanks to Sue Carlson for suggesting this site. The club would like to do this again.

Parent Club Meeting

WVSSA members, Larry and Betty Schwartz, Marti Nickoli and Carol Callahan attended the meeting held in St Louis on February 23rd - 25th. The four of us were kept busy attending meetings.

On Sunday, Carol Callahan was officially elected to the position of Show Vice President.

Highlights from the Meeting

The Show Committee voted to hold a stand-alone National Specialty at the Purina Farm site in St Louis in September of 2003. Purina has a beautiful site for a dog show and offers many amenities to clubs that hold a show there. We will be able to hold breed, obedience, agility all on the same site and probably a tracking test and hunting test in the immediate area. The official show hotel is about 15 minutes from the show site is very dog friendly, has acres of grass surrounding it and even has a special grooming and bathing area. They even furnish free towels for bathing the dogs. Add to this the fact that the hotel is located right at the 6 Flags Amusement Park and you have a great show "package".

The ESSFTA Foundation voted to begin a major fund raising drive to try to develop a genetic test for PRA, which could lead to eliminating this disease from our gene pool.

Last but not least, next year's annual meeting will be held in Las Vegas! Better plan to attend.

How Hips are Graded by OFA

The phenotypic evaluation of hips done by the Orthopedic Foundation for Animals falls into seven different categories. Those categories are Excellent, Good, Fair, Borderline, Mild, Moderate, Severe. Below is an in depth at each of these classifications and what they mean. Once each of the radiologists classifies the hip into one of the seven phenotypes above, the final hip grade is decided by a consensus of the three independent outside evaluations. Examples would be:

- Two radiologist reported excellent, one good—the final grade would be excellent
- One radiologist reported excellent, one good, one fair—the final grade would be good
- One radiologist reported fair, two radiologists reported mild—the final grade would be mild

The hip grades of excellent, good and fair are within normal limits and are given OFA numbers. This information is accepted by AKC on dogs with permanent identification (tattoo, microchip) and is in the public domain. Radiographs of borderline, mild, moderate and severely dysplastic hip grades are reviewed by the OFA radiologist and a radiographic report is generated documenting the abnormal radiographic findings. Unless the owner has chosen the open database, dysplastic hip grades are closed to public information.

Excellent

This classification is assigned for superior conformation in comparison to other animals of the same age and breed. There is a deep seated hip ball (femoral head) which fits tightly into a well-formed hip socket (acetabulum) with minimal joint space. There is almost complete coverage of the hip socket over the hip ball.

Good

Slightly less than superior but a well-formed congruent hip joint is visualized. The hip ball fits well into the hip socket and good coverage is present.

Fair

Fair is assigned where minor irregularities in the hip joint exist (see Figure 3). The hip joint is wider than a good hip phenotype. This is due to the hip ball slightly slipping out of the hip socket causing a minor degree of joint incongruity (called subluxation). There may also be slight inward deviation of the weight-bearing surface of the hip socket (dorsal acetabular rim) causing the hip socket to appear slightly shallow (Figure 4). This can be a normal finding in some breeds however, such as the Chinese Shar Pei, Chow Chow, and Poodle.

Borderline

There is no clear cut consensus between the radiologists to place the hip into a given category of normal or dysplastic. There is usually more incongruity present than what occurs in the minor amount found in a fair but there are no arthritic changes present that definitively diagnose the hip joint being dysplastic. There also may be a bony projection present on any of the areas of the hip anatomy, illustrated in Figure 4, that can not accurately be assessed as being an abnormal arthritic change or as a normal anatomic variant for that individual dog. To increase the accuracy of a correct diagnosis, it is recommended to repeat the radiographs at a later date (usually six months). This allows the radiologist to compare the initial film with the most recent film over a given time period and assess for progressive arthritic changes that would be expected if the dog was truly dysplastic. Most dogs with this grade (over 50%) show no interval change in hip conformation over time and receive a normal hip rating; usually a fair hip phenotype.

Mild

With Mild Canine Hip Dysplasia there is significant subluxation present where the hip ball is partially out of the hip socket causing an incongruent increased joint space. The hip socket is usually shallow only partially covering the hip ball. There are usually no arthritic changes present with this classification and if the dog is young (24 to 30 months of age), there is an option to resubmit an x-ray when the dog is older so it can be re-evaluated a second time. Most dogs will remain dysplastic showing progression of the disease with early arthritic changes. There are a few dogs however, that show improved hip conformation with increasing age. Since HD is a chronic, progressive disease, the older the dog, the more accurate the diagnosis of HD (or lack of HD). At 2 years of age, the reliability for a radiographic diagnosis of HD is 95% and as the dog ages, the reliability steadily increases. Radiographs should definitely be resubmitted if they were taken during times of known environmental effects such as physical inactivity and high estrogen levels during or around the time of a heat cycle which could lead to a "false" diagnosis of mild hip dysplasia.

Moderate

There is significant subluxation present where the hip ball is barely seated into a shallow hip socket causing joint incongruity. There are secondary arthritic bone changes usually along the femoral neck and head (termed remodeling), acetabular rim changes (termed osteophytes or bone spurs) and various degrees of trabecular bone pattern changes called sclerosis. Once arthritis is reported, there is only continued progression of arthritis over time.

Severe

Severe is assigned where radiographic evidence of marked dysplasia exists. There is significant subluxation present where the hip ball is partly or completely out of a shallow hip socket. Like moderate HD, there are also large amounts of secondary arthritic bone changes along the femoral neck and head, acetabular rim changes and large amounts of abnormal bone pattern changes.

About the OFA

The OFA, established in 1966, is a not-for-profit organization originally created to assist breeders in addressing hip dysplasia. In recent years OFA has added databases to assist breeders in assessing elbow and patella deformities, craniomandibular osteopathy, autoimmune thyroiditis, congenital heart disease, copper toxicosis in Bedlington Terriers, and DNA databases.

The OFA has the following objectives:

- To collate and disseminate information concerning orthopedic and genetic diseases of animals.
- To advise, encourage and establish control programs to lower the incidence of orthopedic and genetic diseases.
- To encourage and finance research in orthopedic and genetic disease in animals.
- To receive funds and make grants to carry out these objectives.
